ONE OF THE MURDERERS OF MOLITOR FOUND GUILTY.

A Big Scandal at the Kulamazoo Icsane Asylum, -- Richardson Elected Congressman in the Fifth.

The first of the Molitor murder conspiracy trials at Alpena has ended and the prisoner is charged with murder in the first degree. The jury was out all night before a verdict could be reached. The prisoner—August Grossman—be-came ghastly pale as the jury was polled and great beads of perspiration stood out on his face as the words were spoken which consigned him to life imprisonment. His wife broke down and wept piteously. The prisoner was re-manded for sentence.

There are also three other defendents

There are also three other defendents in the case and they will be tried in the February term, each separately. Repke and Reiger, who are also under indictment but who have made confessions, will probably plead guilty and throw themselves on the mercy of the court. Is is understood that proceedings will be commenced against Monde Sorgen. be commenced against Mende, Sorgen-fric, Weisengart and Bruder, the re-maining four of the twelve who were are alleged to have been in the con-spiracy, Rarabas and Tuelgetski being dead. Proceeding may also be become dead. Proceeding may also be begun against Andrew E. Banks. The case of Grossman will probably be appealed to the supreme court, but a new trial is not expected.

The story of the conspiracy is as fol-ows: Albert Molitor and Ed Sullivan, his clerk, were shot one night in August, 1876, while at work in the former's office in Rogers City, Presque county. Five shots were fired, the as-sassins taking aim through an open window. Molitor and Sullivan died a few hours later in great agony.

Justice wasn't much of an institution in Presque Isle county in those days and little effort was made to run down the murderers. Molitor was a man of large wealth, but he was also the most unpopular man in northern Michigan. He was something of a despot in Rogers City. Presently the tragedy was forgotten. In August, 1891, however, one Replie made a confession declaring that he was one of a dozen implicated in the conspiracy. Twelve arrest were made, and Reiger, one of the prisoners, confessed complicity in the murders. Only five were held, however, and August Grossman is the first tried. The ses were transferred to Alpena county last August, it being impossible to se cure disinterested veniremen in Presque Brutal Treatment of Patients by the Attendants at Kalamazoo.

The Michigan asylum for the insane at Kalamazoo is shaken up by a sensa-tion that savors strongly of murder. It has led to the bouncing of one at-tendant and more discharges may fol-A short time ago Wm. Konegan, who had been brought from Jackson three days before, was found dead in bed with blood oozing from his nose and cars, and bearing evidence of having been roughly handled. It was thought at the time that he had been sandbagged and robbed in Jackson be fore coming here, and a physician testi-fied that the clot of blood formed on his brain was the result of a blow gived not more than 10 days previous. At Jackson, however, the authorities maintained that Konegan must have received his injuries after reaching Kalamazoo.

Now a startling disclosure appears. While under the influence of liquor in a saloon Daniel Nevitt, an attendant, told a friend that Konegan had attacked him the day before he was found dead, and that he, Nevitt, had thrown him down and kicked him un-til he begged for mercy. The story asylum. Nevitt was investigated at the now denies that he kicked Konegan, but says he kicked a patient named Thayer, who had a couple of ribs broken. The four attendants in that ward refuse to talk, and unless they come to time the whole lot will have Nevitt has been discharged and was later put under the surveillance of an officer, awaiting further developments. He may be arrested at any time.

He was badly chilled but not frozen, and may possibly recover. The creditors of Ira Stretch, an assigned merchant of Dowagiac, are set-tling for 25 cents on the dollar.

THE STATE GRANGE.

The twentieth annual session of the State Grange was held in Lansing and vas quite interesting. Worthy Master Mars in his address spoke of the pend-ing senatorial contest. The gave the present caucus system a severe drub-bing, claiming that it was the means of placing men without character or ability in the senate, giving men of great wealth and disreputable methods a clear road over poor, but honest, can-didates. The worthy master also paid some attention to matters now before Congress. He said he was satisfied that markets are seriously affected by the great boards of trade and their mode of buying and selling, and hoped that the anti-option and pure food bills will pass. No plan has been sugbills will pass. gested that, in his opinion, is a better solution of the great question of finance than the one now in vogue. He expressed the belief that the increase of money should keep pace with the in-crease of population. The land loan and sub-treasury schemes were said to have been relegated to the rear as one of the lost problems of the age. The scheme urged upon Congress having for its object the irrigation of the arid lands of the west was soundly condemned as one which, if adopted, will call for the expenditure of untold millions. The opinion was expressed that we now have all the land needed, in view of the lively competition and small profits which exist. A good word was spoken for the free rural mail de-livery project and for the State Agri-cultural College, which, he said, should have ample means to enlarge its useful-ness and admit girls on an equal foot-ing with boys. The grange's finances are in good condition and the order is growing slowly but steadily.

Armour, the Chicago Milliounire, Gives $1,500,000 for an Institute in His City.

Philip D. Armour, the millionaire Philip D. Armour, the millionaire packer, gives over $1,500,000 to the city of Chicago as a Christmas present. Absolutely unknown to the public work has been going on for a year past toward the erection of a magnificent five-story building on Armour avenue and it is now all but ready for occupancy. This building will be known as the Armour institute and will be to Chicago all that the Drevel institute is Chicago all that the Drexel institute is to Philadelphia and the Pratt institute to Brooklyn. This building is but a small part of the gift. In addition to it and for its support Mr. Armour gives $1,400,000. All that money and brains and labor can do will be done towards making it the greatest institute for manual training, science and art in this country.

It is expected that the school will open on September 1 next. During the next few months the most com-plete apparatus obtainable for every branch and a library bearing upon every line of study will be secured. In addition to the building and elaborate apparatus for teaching electricity, physics and chemistry, a fine library and a perfect gymnasium, Mr. Armour puts behind the institute and the Armour mission his gift of $1,400,000, thus giving the former an annual income of $50,000 and the latter $25,000. come of $50,000 and the latter $25,000. Gould's Generousity. According to a story circulated in New York City Jay Gould not long be-fore his death wrote a letter in which he is said to have suggested $1,000,000 as probably the proper amount that would be needed to endow a preparatory institution, such as he had in mind, with the object in view of fitting young men for college. It was said that while the plan is not mentioned in the will and no provision is made for its carrying out, the matter was left with George Gould and that his father's wishes, whatever they were will be carried out.

Ex-Gov. St. John, of Kansas, writes: "While much is being published against Jay Gould, in 1880, when settlers in western Kausas were penniless and threatened with starvation, I wrote to this much-abused man about it. He promptly sent me $5,000."

The latter drew a kulfe and attempted to stab the stranger. The knife, however, struck Cook, giving him a deep cut in the abdomen. It is said that just before his death, Cook seemed to take a different view of the matter and thought Westenburg ought to be arrested.
